What People Saying about Bill C-323:

"This is an idea that has had widespread support from heritage advocates, federal, provincial, territorial and municipal governments, and the Federation of Canadian Municipalities over the years. It's exciting to see it tabled in the House and given first reading. We know that the tax system can be a powerful tool to stimulate private investment in heritage buildings. In the United States, the introduction of a 20 percent federal tax credit for rehabilitation of heritage buildings 40 years ago revolutionized the way developers think about old buildings and launched a booming and competitive preservation industry."

Bill C-323

What is Bill C-323?

- A tax credit that will seek to limit the destruction of Canada's heritage buildings, and instead encourage the rehabilitation of these culturally significant buildings
- The Bill would also allow owners to write-off spending on heritage restoration at a faster rate than is currently the case

Why introduce Bill C-323?

- There is a tremendous public interest in the preservation and restoration of heritage properties. But the cost burden of doing so is usually more expensive to owners than other alternatives—like demolition and new construction
- This Bill helps owners who are preserving heritage buildings with the cost of delivering this public benefit
- The pilot program for this policy was very successful in encouraging investment from private individuals and businesses. The pilot program for this Bill saw tremendous growth in property values, occupancy rates, and profits for businesses in rehabilitated buildings

- The tax credit would be available to properties that appear on the National Register of Historic Places
- An architect must certify that the eligible building has undergone rehabilitation in accordance with the Standards and Guidelines for the Conservation of Historic Places in Canada for the project to be eligible for the credit and the accelerated write-off

Frequently Asked Questions

What does Bill C-323 do?

Bill C-323 creates a 20% tax credit on eligible costs for rehabilitation work done to a building that is designated as a historic place. The bill also creates an Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance for eligible capitalized costs incurred under the same conditions as the tax credit.

What is the purpose of Bill C-323?

The Bill aims to preserve our cultural heritage, and build a foundation upon which the policy may be expanded. Preserving our communal heritage benefits all Canadians, and with Canada 150 fast approaching, it is appropriate to introduce this policy now.

What is a “historic place”?

A historic place is defined as a property on the Register of Historic Places, a list of designated properties that have significant historic value to Canada. The enabling legislation for the Register can be found in s. 3 of the Historic Sites and Monuments Act. Bill C-323 includes a provision for the Minister to extend the definition of “historic place” to other buildings and definitions of historic places (e.g. provincial registers of historic places).

What is an “eligible cost”?

Eligible costs under the provisions of the bill are defined as costs that are construction, professional, insurance, development, site improvement, or otherwise prescribed costs. This explicitly excludes acquisition, cosmetic and furnishing costs.

What is defined as “rehabilitation work”?

Rehabilitation work is defined as work that is done in accordance with the Standards and Guidelines for the Conservation of Historic Places in Canada, and must be certified by a registered professional architect licensed to practice in Canada.

Over what period of time may the tax credit be claimed?

Each certified project has 10 years over which it may have a tax credit claimed, or unused portion thereof carried forward.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is an Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance?

An Accelerated Capital Cost Allowance is a tax mechanism that permits the deduction of taxable capital expenditures in a regularized fashion. For the purposes of this bill, this means that costs which are capitalized in nature, are eligible for a 3 year, 25%, 50%, 25% per year deduction, so that after 3 years, the entire value of the capital expenditure has been written-off.

Can a capitalized cost be claimed under both the tax credit and the accelerated Capital Cost Allowance regimes?

Yes, however, the taxable base will be reduced by the amount of the other policy, e.g. if the capitalized costs are claimed under the tax credit, only the remaining 80% of the capitalized costs will be eligible under the accelerated Capital Cost Allowance.

Has this policy been tested for viability in Canada?

In the early 2000's, the government implemented a pilot program. The program, whose end goal was to be converted into a tax credit such as the one this bill creates, on average doubled the market property values of historic properties, business revenue, and occupancy rates of the historic properties. These activities incentivized by the Fund generated significant GST and corporate tax revenues. The policy is considered viable in Canada.

Has this policy been tested in other countries?

Many countries have heritage grants, programs, etc. The most similar policy to the one this bill advances is the tax credit program in the United States, which provides a 20% tax credit on costs related to the rehabilitation of designated historic buildings, and a 10% credit on non-designated building built before 1936. The program, implemented in 1976, is recognized as having been hugely successful, with over 41,000 projects certified. Furthermore, the program was found to have a net-positive impact on the treasury of +$5.0 billion over the present life of the program (1976-2015).
